

1-A part of my trimming machine is being used by a friend accidentally, which I am scared if it is kind of infected by some viruses or something, because I don't know in which part of his body he has used it. And do you think if I wash it with soap or whatever, it would be good and there isn't any risk about it? Or I should consider more consideration?

2-A part of my trimming machine is being used by a friend accidentally, which I am scared if it is kind of infected by some viruses or something, because I don't know in which part of his body he has used it. And do you think if I wash it with soap or whatever, it would be good and there isn't any risk about it? Or I should consider more consideration?

3-A part of my trimming machine is being used by a friend accidentally, which I am scared if it is kind of infected by some viruses or something, because I don't know in which part of his body he has used it. And do you think if I wash it with soap or whatever, it would be good and there isn't any risk about it? Or I should consider more consideration?